

Getting Started with Using the Canva Presentations

Get Started: Click the link above to access the Canva template and choose “use template for new design.” If you don’t have an account, sign up for the free version here, which provides access to many templates and features.

Personalize: Edit text, upload images, and adjust colors, fonts, and layouts to fit your district’s branding. If you have free Canva you may have watermarks when you download the templates. You can avoid this by replacing them with free photos in elements. Do not modify or remove the NACD logos.

USE! Use Canva for many district needs: brochures, flyers, posters and more!

Audience: Tailor the content to suit your local conservation district area and audience age level. Use the “public link” feature to offer view only links. This helps avoid trying to send graphic files that are too large for email.

Canva Premium: While a basic Canva account is free, consider upgrading to Canva Pro for additional features. You can share a Canva Pro account with up to 5 members.

Non-Profit/Government Accounts: Currently, conservation districts do not qualify as a non profit, but state associations and foundations often do. If your conservation district is part of a non-profit organization, you may qualify for Canva’s free non-profit program.

We are confident you will really enjoy using Canva to personalize your education program to suit your districts needs. Please don’t hesitate to reach out if you need any assistance with signing up, or using the design tools available at stewardship@nacdn.net.
